Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

Claims 3 and 9 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.

Claims 3 and 9 includes the word "type" (i.e. blower type fan) which is unclear because "type" has been held to render such terms indefinite. See Ex parte Copenhagen 109 USPQ 118.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

This application currently names joint inventors. In considering patentability of the claims under 35 U.S.C. 103(a), the examiner presumes that the subject matter of the various claims was commonly owned at the time any inventions covered therein were made absent any evidence to the contrary. Applicant is advised of the obligation under 37 CFR 1.56 to point out the inventor and invention dates of each claim that was not commonly owned at the time a later invention was made in order for the examiner to consider the applicability of 35 U.S.C. 103(c) and potential 35 U.S.C. 102(e), (f) or (g) prior art under 35 U.S.C. 103(a).

Claims 1-12 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Tateyama et al (4,412,261).

Tateyama et al disclose an air blower apparatus for use in an inspection apparatus (col. 1, lines 11-16) comprising an air blowing device (25) for blowing air via an air filter (23) to a recording medium (8) and to a recording apparatus for recording data on the recording medium (col. 1, lines 35-42), wherein the air blowing device comprises a fan unit (34) provided above the recording medium (8), a fan housing provided above the fan unit as a first buffer space (see the space 32 in the housing above the fan 34 in Fig. 1) to direct the air flow onto the recording medium (8) (see air flow arrow in Fig. 1), and a second buffer space provided in the fan housing (see space around the fan 34 in Fig. 1) so as the second buffer space temporarily accumulates the air discharged from the fan to provide a high pressure area (see col. 4, lines 22-54). It would have been obvious to a person having ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to provide a fan housing with 2 buffer spaces as taught by Tateyama et al to provide an effective countermeasure for protecting the magnetic disc memory device against dust to prevent a rapid clogging of the air filter and hence a rapid pressure reduction in the magnetic disk chamber which in turn requires a frequent renewal of the air filter.

Conclusion

The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure.

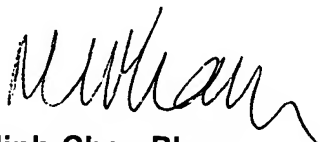

- Beck et al (4,471,395) disclose a self-ventilated recirculating air flow system
- Yamaguchi et al (5,031,059) disclose a storing device with gas flow control.

- Nakano et al (6,574,105 B2) disclose a housing for enclosing apparatus for recording apparatus.
- Horovitz et al (3,846,835) disclose a clean air system for magnetic storage disk pack.
